Entry requirements This course is for everyone, there are no entry requirements.

Tell me about the course During this course you will explore local conservation issues, ecology and the techniques used to study it. You will carry out a range of practical activities including investigating the ecology of hedgerows and the local coastline.

The course will cover:

Investigations of the species found in the local area
Practical investigation of local habitats
Local conservation issues and how we can help.

How will I learn? This is a practical course and the sessions will include tutor-led demonstrations, learner-led activities, instruction and repetition. These will form part of the delivery together with one-to-one support as required.

How will I know I am making progress? During the first session, your tutor will discuss your goals and current level in relation to the course. Based on this assessment, you will agree individual targets which will be reviewed regularly to ensure you are making progress; these will be written in your individual learning plan.

What will I need for the course? Please bring a pen and notepad to sessions. For practical sessions you will need to ensure you wear suitable footwear and should also ensure that your clothing is suited to the weather.

What can I learn next? Look out for information regarding follow-on-courses.
